No. 1:11-cv-837-JMS-MJD

Entry Discussing Request to Proceed on Appeal In Forma Pauperis

An appeal may not be taken in forma pauperis if the trial court certifies that the appeal is not taken in good faith. 28 U.S.C. § 1915; see Coppedge v. United States, 369 U.S. 438 (1962). Good faith within the meaning of § 1915 must be judged by an objective, not a subjective, standard. Id. There is no objectively reasonable argument which the plaintiff could present to argue that the disposition of this action was erroneous—nor does his request for leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis even suggest such an argument. In pursuing an appeal, the plaintiff “is acting in bad faith . . . [because] to sue in bad faith means merely to sue on the basis of a frivolous claim, which is to say a claim that no reasonable person could suppose to have any merit.” Lee v. Clinton, 209 F.3d 1025, 1026 (7th Cir. 2000).

Based on the foregoing, therefore, the plaintiff’s request for leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis [15] is denied.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
